AIA Presentation on New Madigan Library

Harrisburg, PA – April 5, 2007 – Benedict H. Dubbs, AIA LEED AP, of Murray Associates Architects, P.C., delivered a presentation entitled “Architectural Design of the New Madigan Library” to the AIA Middle Pennsylvania Chapter in Williamsport on March 23, 2007. The presentation focused on the planning and decision-making process required to create the new 104,000 square foot state-of-the-art library at the Pennsylvania College of Technology in Williamsport. The new building can accommodate 400,000 volumes, and houses two instructional classrooms, a technology lab, teacher’s learning center, private study rooms, archive areas, an art gallery and a café.
